

POKO TYPE "IMPS"

by Mike J. Burrows

When the Imperial Tobacco Co. (of Great Britain and Ireland), Ltd. - known on the stock market as IMPS - was formed in December 1901, their objective was to acquire the interests of all the major tobacco companies in the British Isles.

Their aims were soon realized and, in 1902, the export business was sold to British-American Tobacco Co., Ltd.

Several different Perfin's are known to have been used by IMPS and the companies they took control of.

A "POKO" type stamp-affixing apparatus was in use on their mail emanating from Eire as well as Great Britain. The very nature of the automatic Perfinning and stamp-affixing operation makes it very unusual for off-cover examples to have readable dated postmarks showing places of origin. The Perfinned stamp being affixed nearly all the time in the area where either the wavy lines or the slogan portion of the machine postmark would be impressed.
